MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR:

Jan McEnroe:

It has been a busy summer with club members participating in many activities: our Horse Driving Trial, the Snake River Stampede Parade, the Kuna Parade, Combined Driving Events, Driving Camps, Can Drive, fairs, Wagon Days Parade...etc..

The weather is starting to cool down which means recreational drive/rides will be coming your way soon. Watch your email and club calendar for dates.

We are looking forward to Clay Maier being with us September 24-26 for his long-lining/driving clinic. This is a super clinic whether you are just starting or have been driving for years

Plan now to come out for our Pleasure Driving Show in October. We will have classes for beginners to advanced drivers. Even if you are not driving yet we have ground driving classes for you to compete in. Bring your horses and enjoy. For the drivers we have dressage, rail classes, reinsmanship, cones, town and country, and more.

We have a variety of events coming this fall so remember to keep checking the club website for dates and times. We are working on having another Trec in October as well.

A few members have started ground driving trails again, so if you are interested give Mary a call and she will get you on the email list.

Enjoy the upcoming cool weather and Drive On....:)

“A DRIVE IN THE PARK”

Amanda Horton

The second annual Idaho Driving Festival – A Drive in the Park HDT & CT was held June 7th- 8th at the Idaho Horse Park. We had 40 entries, more than twice the number of entries from the first year's event. Course designer Keith Yutzy created a lovely and challenging marathon and cones Courses; and decorating divas Kathy and Robin DeLong along with a little help from their friends gave us memorable obstacles like the “Buggy Business”, “Gone Fishing” and “Margaritaville”. This year Intermediate level was added which included hiring a second judge. All dressage classes were judged by two judges meaning each exhibitor got the advantage of getting comments from two officials. Daryl Spurgeon was the ultimate volunteer, taking the entire week off of work to assist Keith in building the courses and helping insure things ran smoothly through the event. Linnae Costello a non-horsey friend of the club provided superb secretary skills to help event organizer Amanda Horton from pulling out too much of her hair. Lee Van De Bogart (which also includes Mary☺) was our cones steward, Sarah Kehne our scorer and a multitude of other volunteers helped make the event an unqualified success.

The two day format was welcomed by the exhibitors giving them a little more breathing room to prepare for all of their events. We will continue with that format for next year and hope to include Intermediate II next year which consists of Advanced Dressage and Cones and an Intermediate marathon. Next year the combined test will probably be limited to multiple hitches (4 in hands, tandems, etc.) that cannot compete in the driving trial. This will allow more room for driving trial entries.

Finally, the event was financially successful as well basically breaking even. In addition, the ADS Fund approved a second year event grant of $500 to the TVW to assist with travel expenses of the officials. The silent auction also provided over $450 to the club. These funds enabled the club to reimburse the obstacle construction costs for the pole panels used in the Buggy Business obstacle. Hopefully the club will be able to invest in a few more items that will make our event even more spectacular every year: next year think cones numbers.

Please put June 6-7, 2015 on your calendars now for our third annual Drive in the Park!

“THE CDE AT INAVALE”

Kathy DeLong

The CDE at Inavale is held in a very small town outside of Corvallis, Oregon, just 1.5 hours from the Oregon coast. Nestled amidst the tree farms in the rolling hills outside of Philomath, Oregon is a large farm that is home to a multifaceted center for riding events, cross country jumping, a

COLLABORATORS ON COMMON GROUND

Clay Maier

Long reining, long lining, and ground driving are several names for this from the ground-up collaboration that builds a solid relationship between you and your horse while you both learn concepts and skills to complement your riding or driving.

What is meant by being connected? One dressage glossary defines it as “The state in which there is no blockage, break, or slack in the circuit that joins horse and rider into a single, harmonious, elastic unit.”

I am not a dressage rider by any means. At least by what we commonly consider a “dressage rider” today, actually I am a fairly eclectic horseman. I enjoy pack trips and cattle brandings. I’ve driven stagecoaches in Yosemite Park. I was a rodeo competitor for many years. I have competed at all levels of competitive driving, from coaching to combined driving. However, over those years I have taken many things from the world of dressage. One concept that lends itself especially well to long reining is the importance of connection.

large boarding kennel for dogs, and for the last 5 years the CDE at Inavale.

Bev White heads up the event making sure that every detail is covered and each competitor has a memorable experience. The CDE at Inavale just wouldn’t be the same if it wasn’t for “the twins”, Frances and Carol Bowersock. As well as being very hard workers they add a sort of comedic presence and they make you feel very “special” -- in one way or another!

Well, dressage came and went on Friday, and Saturday brought the marathon - favorite of most CDE competitors! The marathon phase at Inavale is beautiful. Going over the wooded trails is like being in a storybook. A canopy of trees covers the driving paths with open grass areas and 7 challenging obstacles -- two of them with water! Marathon day was hot, so they let the advanced levels go first. Our later start time gave us a chance to watch the two water hazards, where we saw some impressive runs. The TVW’s were well represented with John and Mary Munson driving their Fjord pair Flint and Spring, Amanda Horton with Erin Fredrick Sharts as her groom driving Ivy, and Kathy DeLong and Ellen Short driving Chloe. John said he had lots of fun on the marathon; he was just coming off section B as I was waiting to start it. I know Amanda and Erin had a great run and lots of fun too because Erin was smiling in every picture and Amanda climbed to fourth place with their swiftness in the obstacles. Chloe, Ellen and I had a great run too with no penalty points added to our score! At the end of the day we enjoyed a deliciously catered dinner, awards and the closing of the silent auction.

Sunday brought cooler temperatures and a bit of thunder and lightning! Rain was on its way, and just as I entered the cones course it started. The cool rain was a breath of fresh air, Chloe was a perfect lady and we had a double clean round! It doesn’t get any better than that!

Good friends, beautiful horses everywhere and a perfect setting I’m going back next year!

As the above definition implies, it goes well beyond just our hands connected to the bit. We can encourage the horse to relax and stretch his entire body into the bit, which is connected to our soft understanding hands, our relaxed and elastic arms and shoulders right up to where we conceive the thought we want to convey. Ultimately, the real connection is between two minds: the horse and trainer.

Once we begin to develop connection many things fall into place, flexion, balance, straightness, rhythm, suppleness, collection. All of which helps your horse be what he can really be, a more enjoyable carriage horse, a more enjoyable jumping horse, a more enjoyable trail horse — and have a more enjoyable relationship with you.

Wherever you are headed with your horse, regardless of your past experience, you can make that journey more rewarding by being connected from the ground up. Starting from day one, you’ll like it and your horse will too.

Clay Maier Long Reining/Driving Clinic

Clay's long reining program takes both the horse and trainer through a series of easy to understand steps, building a foundation for almost any training goal. Learn techniques to develop more sensitive hands, find out how and why to teach lateral movement, lengthen stride or collection, and perhaps most importantly, how to softly stretch the topline.

The limited number of participants allows Clay to give all the necessary time for each individual's goal regardless of their or their horse's level. The intimate group provides the chance to learn from each other.

Long reining offers the opportunity to create and achieve goals throughout your horse's entire training program.

- Develop confidence and communication on common ground. Sometimes we have a very forward, strong-moving horse, a young horse, or a horse struggling with a new concept. The long reins give the trainer the ease of confidence to introduce ideas using a safe and easy to understand method.
- See the progress your horse makes. Many dressage arenas include mirrors for the rider to see exactly what that topline looks like, or, when asked for a bend, is the horse actually stepping under or just turning his head. Long reining not only provides effective techniques but also allows a perspective for seeing the horse's progress.
- Every day is a productive day. These days, time seems to be everyone's most valued commodity. Due to our busy routines, our "horse time" occasionally suffers. More often than not, we can prepare and accomplish more with the long reins in a very limited time frame, which allows us to respect one of the pillars of all good training programs — consistency.

Who Would Benefit from this Clinic?

This clinic is open to all breeds and ages of horses, and to students and horses at all levels. It is an effective training method for driving and all styles of riding.

Clay Maier's lifetime of experience with many breeds includes over two decades of work with Friesian horses. His well-honed skills include not only starting, training and exhibiting some of the country's best-known driven horses, but also developing performance Friesians.

Clay's clinics open new perspective from the ground that will also bring a new understanding in the saddle and cart. Together, you and your horse can benefit from insights that long reining brings to whatever discipline — from dressage, to trail riding, to driving. These clinics offer a superb opportunity to learn techniques directly from a master of long reining and driving horses.

Clay's goal in teaching is to have his students gain confidence in the techniques by hands-on practice during the clinic. He uses clear, easy-to-understand exercises embedded in a solid foundation of the Maier style of building a training relationship with your horse. Kind communication and consistency, matched with his perspective on what the horse is thinking are the keystones.
